

NO DECISION IN HENRICO FIGHT

Committee Hears Evidence and Takes Hungry Precinct Matter Under Advisement.

Both sides in the Childrey-Throckmorton fight for the honor of representing Bruin and Hungry Precincts, of Henrico, in the Democratic convention, to be held in Roanoke, appeared at the courthouse yesterday morning and aired their grievances at length before the county Democratic committee, which, though it strove manfully, did not reach a formal decision, but which will submit its ultimatum probably in the first part of the week, for carefully weighing the evidence produced by the contending parties.

The contest involves the question of whether jurisdiction lies with the county committee or with the convention committee on credentials. Mr. Childrey said openly yesterday that he thought the county committee should act in the premises, and that he would abide by its decision.

Mr. Throckmorton, on the other hand, was categorical. It is believed that he favors putting the matter up to the convention committee, and that he will probably not take the decision of the county committee as final if it decides in favor of his opponent.

Committee Hears Evidence.

The meeting yesterday was called to order by Mr. P. S. Michael, at the written request of Mr. B. L. Purcell, one of Mr. Childrey's strongest supporters, who explained that he wanted to contest the primary at Yellow Tavern on April 28th, in which Mr. Throckmorton was declared unanimously elected delegate.

On the floor, Mr. Purcell said he had been chosen as chairman of a committee consisting of the friends of Mr. Childrey to make complaint concerning the "irregularities" alleged to have been practiced in the election of Mr. Throckmorton.

He went on further to say that this committee was not questioning the qualifications of Mr. Throckmorton as a delegate, but appeared to say that he had not been elected by the voice of the majority, adding that the adherents of Mr. Childrey did not have a fair show.

Mr. A. B. Childrey, son of Mr. C. W. Childrey, who acted as secretary of the Throckmorton meeting, stated that when his father's supporters had gone into the hall to demand a stoppage, Mr. Throckmorton was declared elected. Immediately after the meeting, he said, the minutes were signed by the chairman, Mr. Charles U. Williams, but he (Childrey) refused to sign, thinking that the proceedings were irregular and unconstitutional. In other words, that Mr. Throckmorton's election had been "railroaded" through.

Much more evidence, all of which has already been printed, was laid before the committee, which, after hearing it, went into executive session.

Decision Deferred.

The result of the executive session was the announcement that the committee needed more time in which to consider the matter, and would not make known its decision for several days. During that time the contending delegates will be consulted, and it is thought that the result will be an amicable settlement. This is undoubtedly the object of the committee in deferring action.

Though Mr. Throckmorton's supporters were present at the meeting and stoutly maintained that everything had been done in an "above board" and parliamentary manner, rebutting all the statements made by the other side, Mr. Throckmorton himself would not discuss the matter last night.

Mr. Simon Solomon, who is said to have had the leading part in his election, was at the meeting for a time, but had little to say. No accusations were made against him.

Aged Man Found Dead.

Lying in the chimney corner outside his home in Henrico county, the body of Mr. Charles H. Horton, an aged man, was found on Friday night by his neighbors, after having been exposed for several days. Death is supposed to have been caused by heart failure. Mrs. Horton died a year ago, and besides a stepson, Mr. Joseph L. Mosby, of 363 Nicholson Street, Fulton, her husband had no relatives in the community.

Some years ago Mr. Horton was injured by a fall from a telegraph pole, and since that time he had not been able to do heavy work. He was employed as clerk at the Chesapeake and Ohio depot until about two weeks before his death.

The body was moved to the county courthouse yesterday morning, where it was viewed by the coroner, Dr. W. A. Deas, who deemed an inquest unnecessary.

Teachers Named.

The Varina District School Board appointed the following teachers for the coming season:

GREAT SINGERS WIN STORMS OF APPLAUSE

Final Concert by Wednesday Club Notable for Enthusiastic Demonstration by Audience—Signor Gogorza and Mme. de Cisneros Very Popular.

The final concert of the May Festival last evening was a splendid success from every viewpoint, and was a fitting conclusion to one of the most delightful feasts of music the Wednesday Club has yet provided for the Richmond music loving public. The concert was probably even more enjoyed than the concluding one of last season, so that the program was of a lighter and more varied character, and instead of a single composer being represented thereon, there were more than a dozen.

The audience was the largest yet, and few indeed were the vacant seats visible when Mr. Mollenhauer stepped to his baton for the opening number. Artists and orchestra were in splendid form and obliging to a degree with encores, nor was there over an audience of a hundred in appreciation or unstinted in its applause.

The opening number of the program was the overture, "Le Roi d'Ys," by Lalo, a beautiful composition, rendered with splendid effect by the orchestra. This was followed by Rubinstein's "Song of the Spheres," played by the violins alone, one of the daintiest and most delicate pieces the orchestra has ever played here. The interpretation was superb, and Mr. Mollenhauer was compelled to respond with an encore number.

Great Enthusiasm.

When Gogorza was reached on the program the enthusiasm was unbounded. Of all the baritone voices have been heard at Richmond, none have been more popular than this magnificent voice, whose voice was never more perfect than last evening. His first number was the "Prologue," from I. Pachelbel. If he had not sung the part from "Le Roi d'Ys" and the "Toreador" as encores, even so the audience would have carried away memories of the best rendering of the pathetic, powerful and moving story of the clown's heart. The applause was so spontaneous and hearty at the conclusion of this great solo that Signor de Gogorza sang an aria from "Le Roi d'Ys," which was a delight to the audience at the last festival.

Chabrier's "España," welcomed as an old favorite, was brilliantly given.

Received Ovation.

Mrs. de Cisneros, who from her triumphs at the Metropolitan in New York, made her first appearance in Richmond with the great contralto aria from Meyerbeer's "Le Prophete," which she sang with the greatest of skill, and with the greatest of power. Beyond all doubt her most pleasing number was the encore, "The Rose Song," from Meyerbeer's "Huguenots."

Numerous Recalls.

At the conclusion of this aria which was never sung before in Richmond, a public performance, Signor de Gogorza, to the great delight of all, came back and sang three beautiful songs: Handel's "Where'er Ye Walk," Tourne's "Mother of Mine," "Parker's 'The Lark Now Leaves Its Watery Nest'."

Applause of the Gogorza brand followed this lovely trio of songs. The chorus beamed, clapped and threw flowers, and the audience, and who made so favorable an impression on Friday evening, sang Coleridge Taylor's "Onaway, Awake, Beloved."

Mr. Mollenhauer then led the orchestra through Jacobini's "Scene du Bal." Madame de Cisneros sang the last solo in Santuzza's "Romance," from the tragedy of "Cavallera Rusticana," with great feeling and power. But beyond all doubt her most pleasing number was the encore, "The Rose Song," from Meyerbeer's "Huguenots."

His recalls were numerous and enthusiastic, but he had sung his share, and so, bowing and shaking his head, the great baritone retired.

FLORIDA SPECIAL KILLS YOUNG LADY

In an attempt early last night to stop out of the way of the Atlantic Coast Line northbound train at Centralia, Va., Miss Alice Keeton was struck by the Florida Special going south and instantly killed. Both trains were due at Centralia at the same time, and Miss Keeton became confused as to the tracks, getting out of the way of the wrong train.

She was about to board the train for Lawrenceville, Brunswick county, returning from a visit to her sister, Mrs. J. L. Clark, wife of the day of the accident, when the accident occurred. She was but seventeen years of age.

Her body was badly mangled in the accident. The special was stopped by the engineer, and was delayed about forty minutes. The body was turned over to the young lady's relatives.

CAMBRIDGE MAN STILL MISSING

After two days of searching, no definite trace has been found of the young Cambridge man, Arthur Morse, who leaped from a train Thursday night at Acca station and disappeared into the woods. His friends are now hoping that the young man took a train North, eluding the vigilance of the Washington authorities, who were wired to look out for him, and will yet turn up at his home in Cambridge, or, possibly, his traveling companion, spent yesterday with a party driving from one farmhouse to another making inquiries. At the home of Mrs. Hattie Moore, near Lakeside, he was hoping that a young man answering to the description had been seen in that neighborhood late Friday evening.

A party went through the woods on foot throughout the day, but found no clue. A man said to answer the description was seen near the Hill Monument about midday yesterday, but no further trace could be found, and whether he came into the city is not known. Dr. Cowles offered a reward of $25 last night. A party will leave Acca Station this morning at 9 o'clock to search the woods, and volunteers are invited to assist.

Among those out yesterday were Messrs. F. Banks, W. F. Van Sant, George Hankins, W. B. Ricks, Summerville and others.

Dr. Cowles expressed a fear last night that the young man had fallen into one of the many abandoned wells in the neighborhood.

Attempted to Resist.

David Christian (colored) was arrested last night by the police and taken to the station on the charge of being drunk and disorderly. He was caught on Eighteenth Street, where he attempted to offer resistance to the two officers. Werner quickly clamped a wrist band on him, and he was led quietly down to the station.
